Program Overview

Teaching older adults about money can be a daunting task. Although seniors may be interested in learning how to manage their money, they may resist their financial management choices. To make seniors comfortable, frame the training as empowering participants to take advantage of available resources and begin making incremental steps to economic security through benefits and improved personal spending/saving practices.

- This 90-minute program (65-min instruction/25-min Q & A) is designed to provide participants with basic money management concepts for a fixed budget, the benefits of banking, and an overview of public benefits and how to access and retain them.

- This training is best paired with a community agency that provides services to older adults who can speak to the array of programs and benefits eligible to seniors in that community. These organizations include, but not limited to, Area Agencies on Aging, United Ways, and Senior Centers. Partnering with a senior-focused organization shifts the presentation time to Welcome, Icebreaker, and Tips Sharing (25-min), Money Management concepts (25-min), Accessing Public Benefits (15-min), and Q&A (25-min).
Facilitator’s Preparation

Before you present, it is important to understand the population you will address and the real challenges they are facing every day.

Target Audience:
Low- to moderate-income older adults aged 55+

Economic Status:
Older Americans who are economically insecure—living at or below 250% of the federal poverty level ($28,275 per year for a single person; $38,775 per year for a couple).

Getting Familiar with the Statistics

Living on a Fixed Income
- About 45% of older adults are considered economically insecure, living at or below 250% of the federal poverty level ($28,725 for a single person/$38,775 for a couple). (U.S. Census Bureau, Current Population Survey, 2012 Annual Social and Economic Supplement)
- Almost 75% of single Social Security recipients aged 65+ depend on Social Security for all or most of their monthly income (Social Security Administration, 2012).
- In April 2013, the average retired senior received about $1,266 in Social Security Retirement benefits. This provides typically about 55-75% of the income needed to achieve economic security, as defined by Wider Opportunities for Women’s Elder Economic Security Standard™ Index (Elder Index). (Social Security Administration, 2013; Wider Opportunities for Women, 2013)
- Older women typically receive about $4,000 less annually in Social Security than older men due to lower lifetime earnings, time taken off for caregiving, occupational segregation into low-wage work, and other issues. Older women of color fare even worse. (Wider Opportunities for Women, 2013)
- The average older adult receiving Supplemental Security Income receives just $423/month. (Social Security Administration, 2013)
More than one-third of senior households had no money left over each month or is in debt after meeting essential expenses. (Demos & Institute on Assets and Social Policy, 2011)

“...credit card debt that has often snowballed into thousands of dollars, with no way possible to get out from under the debt, and credit card payments not leaving enough income to cover basics like food and utilities.”

_Area Agency on Aging, Raleigh, NC_

Lack of Savings

- As they do not have enough money in checking or savings accounts, 1/3 of households carrying debt and headed by an adult aged 50+ use credit cards to cover essential expenses, such as rent, food, and other utilities. (Traub, 2013)

- One study found that over half of the retirees surveyed had retirement savings and investments totaling less than $25,000. 28% had savings and investments of less than $1,000. (Employee Benefit Research Institute, 2012)

Older Adults Struggle with Debt

- According to one study, over 1 in 5 adults aged 50+ used their retirement funds to pay down their credit card debt, which jeopardizes their economic security going into retirement. (Traub, 2013)

- According to a study released in early 2013, older adults aged 50+ carried $8,278 in average card debt. (Traub, 2013)

Housing

- Homeownership status, once the cornerstone of economic security for older adults, has become a source of stress and debt with some mortgages exceeding home value. The foreclosure rate on prime loans among those aged 50+ was 23 times higher in 2011 than it was in 2007. (Trawinski & AARP Public Policy Institute, 2012)
Older adults are increasingly affected by the housing crisis. The percentage of seriously delinquent mortgage loans among borrowers 50+ increased by 456% from 2007 to 2011. The percentage of foreclosures increased by 873%. (Trawinski & AARP Public Policy Institute, 2012)

A large percentage of low-income seniors are renters. (AARP, 2011)

1 in 4 subprime loans of borrowers aged 50+ were delinquent in December 2011. (Trawinski & AARP Public Policy Institute, 2012)

Health Security

The average senior with good health needs to spend about $381/month to cover basic health needs. This includes Medicare premiums, supplemental coverage, co-pays, and out of pocket costs. This figure increases to $511/month for an older adult with poor health. (Gerontology Institute, 2012)

Over 45% of the more than 49 million people with Medicare are living below 200% of the federal poverty level ($22,980 for a single person/$31,020 for a couple). (Kaiser Family Foundation, 2012)

Employment

Many older workers who lost jobs during the recession drew early Social Security retirement at age 62 to avoid poverty. However, being forced into early retirement substantially reduces monthly Social Security payments for the rest of their lives. (Urban Institute, 2013)

Older workers of color are most at risk for unemployment, with older African American men twice as likely to be unemployed as older white men. (Bureau of Labor Statistics)

By January 2012, older workers displaced in the years following the recession were half as likely to have regained employment as the nationwide average. (Bureau of Labor Statistics)

Hunger

1 in 7 older adults is currently at risk for hunger. (Meals on Wheels Association of America)
- Over 27% of older adults living in poverty were at risk for hunger in 2011. (National Foundation to End Senior Hunger, 2013)

- Elderly households are much less likely to receive help through the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) than non-elderly households. Only about 1/3 of eligible older adults are currently receiving SNAP (formerly Food Stamps). (U.S. Department of Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Service, 2012; National Foundation to End Senior Hunger, 2013)

“Some of my seniors are facing homelessness due to bad credit ratings.”

Catholic Charities, Hawaii

Mrs. Perry is 70. Not long ago, with a comfortable pension and Social Security income, she was looking forward to owning her own home and enjoying a peaceful retirement. But when her daughter encountered mental health issues, Mrs. Perry found herself raising her two teenage grandchildren. Money became tight. Mrs. Perry got a part-time job to supplement her income, which worked until she landed in the hospital. Without sick pay, Mrs. Perry’s expenses quickly began to mount—mortgage, utility, and credit card bills piled up. Unsure how to navigate the complex maze of social services, Mrs. Perry sought help from Baltimore CASH Campaign, an NCOA Economic Security Service Center.

Setting Goals
A case manager worked with Mrs. Perry to establish personal goals and action steps, based on a holistic assessment of the issues she was facing. These included:

- Applying for public benefits.
- Preventing foreclosure on her home.
- Learning how to budget better.

Referrals to local agencies helped Mrs. Perry receive housing counseling, apply for assistance to pay her prescription and utility bills, and get budgeting education and tools.

Back on Track
Mrs. Perry is now back on the path to economic security. Thanks to the support she received, she was able to:

- Prevent a shut-off of her utilities and receive energy assistance to help pay her bill.
- Get a free cell phone and monthly minutes.
- Adjust the terms of her mortgage to more affordable payments.
- Find a Medicare Part D plan best suited to her prescription needs.

And perhaps most important of all, Mrs. Perry has set a positive example for her grandchildren. Today, the oldest child is working part-time to contribute to the household expenses.
Tips for Facilitators

- Review the guide and complete your own set of accompanying worksheets.

- Review the suggested length for each topic. This session is designed to be 65 minutes from Welcome to Wrap, leaving 25 minutes for Q&A.

- As you prepare and present, we encourage you to consider the following—
  - Remember the individuals in the room have had a lifetime of experience with money. These experiences have shaped their current opinions and perceptions in regard to financial issues.
  - Most individuals are no longer working and are no longer “saving” for retirement. However the ideal “retirement” is not their reality. Many are seeking to work or find other means to make ends meet.
  - Be sensitive to the fact that talking about money is tough for any generation, but this generation is particularly private.
  - Many of those in the room may not have enough income to meet basic needs, but may suffer in silence.
  - Give the audience the respect they deserve. These are the people who built our country and raised our society. It is now our turn to give back to help ensure they can age with dignity and enjoy as much of the “golden years” as possible.
  - Consider your own experience with discussing money management concepts with seniors and older relatives: Do you have elderly parents or grandparents? An aunt, uncle, or close family friend who is 65+? Think about how you treat those family members. How would you want someone to treat them when presenting before them at a community event?
  - If you have ever discussed financial issues with those family members, think about how that discussion played out. Was it a mutual learning experience, stressful, emotional, or a heated discussion? Get in touch with these feelings and apply that experience to your presentation.
  - As appropriate, consider sharing your own successes and challenges, as it is more engaging and effective than appearing to be lecturing.
Materials Needed

- Laptop computer and projector to display PowerPoint presentation
- Flip chart with markers
- Pencils/pens for participants
- Copies of Savvy Saving Seniors Handbook
- Copies of BenefitsCheckUp® brochure
- Copies of local community directory of services for seniors from partnering agency in aging

Script: How to Facilitate this Session

The following information will help guide you in presenting to the audience. In many ways, this script is just a compass. You are encouraged to add personal stories and advice relevant to the topic.

Under no circumstances are bank associates to sell products during this presentation. If a question is asked that you are unprepared to answer, offer to follow up with the individual after researching the question with professionals in aging. Please feel free to reach out to the local senior center staff or NCOA staff to address such questions.

We thank you in advance for taking the time to share this important information with the audience.

Most importantly, remember to have fun!
Welcome
(Slide 1-2) • (5 Min)

Introduce yourself and express your pleasure in sharing some tips on maximizing your income and being resource-FULL in this current economic climate.

- Depending on the number in the audience, have participants introduce themselves and share one concept/idea that he/she wants to take away from the session. List the ideas on the flip chart or marker board. This exercise will add 10 min to the presentation.

- Share the program objectives listed below. Try to connect the topics to the ideas participants shared.

Dollar Bills Icebreaker
(Slide 3) • (10 Min)

Activity:
Name the individual who appears on these bills and give one example of how you save money to the group. If a large group, call on 6 volunteers to name each president and then share a tip. Allow 5–10 min for activity.

Consider sharing Benjamin Franklin’s Poor Richard’s Almanac quote—
“Tell me and I forget. Teach me and I remember. Involve me and I learn.”

Answers:
$1—George Washington; $5—Abraham Lincoln; $10—Alexander Hamilton (was never president, he served as Secretary of Treasury (1789–1795)); $20—Andrew Jackson; $50—Ulysses S. Grant; $100—Benjamin Franklin (was never president, he was an influential inventor and statesman)
Refer to Handbook, page 10, for Checklist.

1. Current expenses: When you aren’t working anymore, every penny counts. Take the time to compile all of your current obligations (supplemental health insurance, prescription drug insurance, life insurance, etc.) and examine if you have the most cost-effective plan for you and/or if all plans are still relevant. Consult with a trusted information source before terminating plans. For instance, when assessing prescription drug plans, consider reaching out to your local State Health Insurance Assistance Program.

2. Health insurance: If you are enrolled in Medicare, you may be able to put over $100 back in your monthly Social Security check and minimize your premiums and co-pays by learning more about Medicare Savings Programs.

3. Prescription drugs: Extra Help and local prescription drug assistance programs can cut costs.

4. Property taxes: Legally whittle down your annual tax bill with help from local abatement, circuit rider, or work-off programs. On average, you can save $500–$2,000 annually with this assistance.

5. Phones: In many states, individuals over a certain age qualify for a free cell phone plan. Consider switching from a land line to a free mobile phone.

6. Volunteering/community service: Get paid to give back—the Senior Corps, Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), and Senior Community Service Employment Program (SCSEP) all provide paid stipends for service.
7. Using your home to stay at home: Learn more about timely and appropriate ways to leverage your home equity to stay independent. Call NCOA at 1-800-510-0301.

8. Senior discounts: Many retailers offer discounts to older customers on certain days of the week. For instance, consider making all your purchases on that day, so you can receive an additional discount.

9. Estate planning: “Must have” legal documents include a will for property distribution decisions, a living will for health care decisions, and a durable power of attorney to designate a personal representative in the event of incapacity. Also, consider a written plan for distributing untitled personal property (e.g., jewelry, furniture, and collectables) to heirs or charitable organizations to reduce confusion and family conflicts.

10. More help: Find out what other public benefits you may be eligible for by visiting www.BenefitsCheckUp.org or calling the Eldercare Locator at 1-800-677-1116.

What’s your tip? What do you think every senior should know?
Money Management
Tips & Tricks

Explain that to start the discussion, it might be helpful to explore everyone’s experiences with money over the years. To do that, give participants the “What’s Your Money Style Personality.” Allow them 5 minutes to complete the quiz to find their money personality. Depending on the size of the group, ask for three volunteers who fall into one of the five money styles to share what they thought about that revelation (about 1 min per response). If the group is too big for such a presentation, encourage them to take a minute to share at their table or with a partner.

This quiz has the potential to take a long time to complete according to the audience’s ability to answer the questions quickly. It can also generate a lot of discussion from the participants and would add to this training’s timing. A good alternative is to introduce it as a “homework” quiz and leave the discussion of it at the end of the training, if time permits.

After the quiz, introduce the Money Management Tips & Tricks PowerPoint presentation.

(Slide 5) • (2 min)
Emergency Savings Goal

Share with the group that we are going to discuss creating a budget with a “peace of mind” emergency savings goal.

(Slide 6) • (7 min)
Provide Tips for Budgeting

- Reconcile your bank statement each month.
- Use a spending diary. Introduce diary in handbook on page 15. Challenge them to record their daily spending for 1 week.
- Keep receipts.
- Set up automatic bill payment for fixed expenses.
- Set aside an amount each month for savings.
- Think ahead for any future expenses you can predict such as birthdays and holidays.
Describe the parts of a budget: income; monthly fixed expenses; monthly flexible expenses; periodic expenses; and discretionary expenses.

- Income: Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, training wages from Senior Community Service Employment Program or volunteer stipend
- Monthly fixed expenses: mortgage/rent, medical insurance premiums, fixed debt payments
- Monthly flexible expenses: food, utilities, gasoline
- Periodic expenses: auto/home insurance, auto/home repair/maintenance, property taxes
- Discretionary expenses: clothing/personal care, entertainment, charitable giving

Budget Example

Show the budget example of Ms. B. Ask them if their budget looks similar. Share with the group the importance of knowing your net worth (assets – liabilities = net worth)

- Assets are things you own that have monetary value, e.g., real estate, furniture, retirement accounts.
- Liabilities are monetary obligations that you owe, e.g., mortgages, equity loans, credit cards, medical bills, and personal loans.

Homework: Encourage the group to add up all their assets and subtract all their liabilities to get their net worth. Explain that in knowing your worth, you can begin to set goals to enhance your economic security with benefits assistance and peace of mind emergency savings.

(Slides 8–9) Creating a budget and knowing your net worth lays the foundation to begin setting your financial goals.
Financial Goal Setting

1. Start by writing down your short-term and long-term goals/desires.
2. Once you write down your goals, you can start to plan how to achieve those goals.
3. When you commit to the plan and follow through, you create your own desired outcomes.

Financial Goal Action Plan

- Describe goals in detail, starting with highest priority.
- Keep a spending diary.
- Identify financial resources needed to achieve goals.
- Set a deadline for achieving your goal.
Benefits of Banking

Becoming an educated consumer of financial services means getting a better understanding of the difference between mainstream financial institutions and check cashing stores that charge higher fees.

Safety: Opening a bank account, or several different kinds of accounts, doesn’t just protect your money. It can help protect your future by adding interest to the money you save. Pick a bank or credit union covered by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC), which insures a variety of deposits, such as checking, savings, trust, certificates of deposit, and individual retirement accounts.

Interest: Depositing your money in a bank means the bank is allowed to lend that money out. In return for the use of your money, the bank pays you interest. The amount of interest you accrue varies, depending on the bank, the account you set up, and the overall economy.

Convenience: Paying for goods and services with cash is sometimes impractical or unsafe. Opening a savings or checking account allows you to pay without using a money order or a big stack of bills. Unlike cash, a check records how much money you spent and where it went. Your account may also allow you to pay with a check or debit card, which can also give you quick access to cash at automatic teller machines. Your bank may allow you to open an online account, from which you can pay bills automatically every month.
NOTE: As of May 1, 2011, if you receive Social Security income, establish direct deposit for electronic payments. If you did not sign up for electronic payments when you applied for benefits, do so now. You must switch to electronic payments by March 1, 2013. If you don’t, the U.S. Department of the Treasury may send your benefits via the Direct Express® card program to avoid an interruption in payment.

Credit: You have had a lifetime of experience with credit. However, if you don’t have a credit history but have a checking account in good standing, it may be easier to obtain credit from your bank. When shopping for a checking account, make sure you get overdraft protection. In case you spend more than your balance, it will protect your credit rating.
Avoiding Money Drains

Avoid the need for a payday loan. If you’ve used these loans in the past, get away from the practice. Budget realistically and save for extra expenses, so they won’t strain your finances, leaving you vulnerable to payday lenders. Check out overdraft protection plans for your checking account, which could save you fees for bounced checks and help keep your account in the black.

Alternatives to payday loans:

- Contact your lenders or creditors if you know you’ll have trouble paying a bill. Often you can work out alternate payment plans, and late fees or added charges are still cheaper than payday loans. Seeking similar help from a consumer credit counseling service is an option. Many are nonprofit and can provide counseling and help with negotiating with lenders. You can find an accredited nonprofit credit counseling agency at the National Foundation for Credit Counseling at www.nfcc.org and 1-800-388-2227.

- Shop for a low-cost loan or a credit card cash advance. Lending sources for personal loans include credit unions and smaller loan or finance companies. Credit card cash advances can cost more, but you may be able to tap a promotional offer and interest rate. Compare all terms and borrow only what you truly need. To find a local community development credit union, go to www.cdcu.coop.
Top 10 Budget Busters to Avoid

(SLIDE 12) • (3 MIN)

1. ATM/bank fees
2. Misusing balance transfers
3. Retail store credit cards
4. Late payments
5. Procrastinating on creating an emergency fund
6. Handouts: Some parents (and grandparents) give until there is nothing left. If you have a family who depends on your fixed income to bail them out of trouble, cut them off now. This is easier said than done for many people, but you can’t let family take advantage of you until you’re broke.
7. Signing the back of your credit cards: Do not sign them. Instead, put “PHOTO ID REQUIRED.”
8. Financial scams: If you receive an email request related to an inheritance or a transfer of money to help someone from a foreign country, forward the entire message, including the message’s header, to the Federal Bureau of Investigation’s Internet Crime Complaint Center (www.ic3.gov). This is the government agency in charge of investigating these fraudulent activities, including the ones that originate in Nigeria and the UK.
9. Poor credit rating: Here are the numbers you always need to contact if your wallet, etc., has been stolen:
   - Equifax: 1-800-525-6285
   - Experian (formerly TRW): 1-888-397-3742
   - Trans Union: 1-800-680-7289
   - Social Security Administration (fraud line): 1-800-269-0271

10. Fast food: It may be a quick way to fill your stomach, but fast food is also a swift way to drain your budget. Buying groceries with that extra $10 per fast food meal can stretch your budget and feed you for another day. Consider recipes for meals that can be cooked and prepared in 30 min or less. Visit the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Recipe Finder for great ideas. www.recipefinder.nal.usda.gov

In today’s world, managing your money is not easy.

You have many decisions to make and many choices as to what to do with YOUR MONEY. Financial education, like learning how to read or write, is about learning important skills you will use every day to make important, informed decisions about your personal financial situation.

Financial management is about a series of decisions related to setting financial goals, creating a budget and spending plan, effectively using credit, and continually reviewing and refining your goals and strategies to achieve a better economic future.
Benefitting from Benefits

Asking for help isn’t always easy—especially if your health is poor and your income limited. That’s why millions of older Americans miss out on assistance that could help them live healthy and independent longer. By adding benefits and supports that you are entitled to, you will free up income, reduce expenses, and be able to grow your “peace of mind” savings.

Finding Local Programs

(SLIDE 15) • (3 MIN)

Reference the local community directory of benefit programs for seniors.

The National Council on Aging identifies programs in your community through BenefitsCheckUp®. You can access BenefitsCheckUp® online at www.BenefitsCheckUp.org. After completing a confidential questionnaire, you will immediately get a report online that identifies programs in your community—including many of the services we just talked about. The report provides contact information for those programs near you, and information about how to apply.

The National Council on Aging also has Resource Centers for mature adults in select cities throughout the country. These Centers include Benefit Outreach Specialists: www.centerforbenefits.org; Mature Workers: www.ncoa.org/scsep, and the National Economic Security Initiative: www.ncoa.org/esi. At these centers, you can get assistance identifying and applying for programs you may qualify for. To learn if your community has a center, go to www.ncoa.org.

Your community may have senior centers or senior groups that provide information about services for older adults. Many centers provide services, including meals.

The U.S. Administration on Aging funds state programs that include Aging and Disability Resource Centers (ADRC). They may have staff trained in assisting with older adult services. You can find the ADRC nearest you at the web address: www.adrc-tae.org/tiki-index.php?page=ADRCLocator.
How to Apply

(SLIDE 15) • (2 MIN)

Many organizations are trying to make it easier to apply to programs. At NCOA’s BenefitsCheckUp® website there are links to the forms you will need and information on how to apply. In some communities, websites have been created that permit you to apply for benefits online. You may be able to avoid standing in line by applying online.

If you go to an office to apply, call ahead and ask if there are documents you must show when you apply. You do not want to spend time waiting in line only to learn that you have to return with your documents.

Billie, age 69, had been widowed for six months when she came to the NCOA Economic Security Center at Aurora Family Service in Milwaukee, WI. She was grieving and lonely. When she called for assistance, she didn’t know what to expect, but she knew she needed help emotionally and possibly financially.

With the help of the Economic Security Center staff, Billie connected with the Cancer Association Grieving/Support Group to help her cope with the death of her husband. She also expressed an interest in working or volunteering to keep busy.

Her income was $1,394/month in Social Security, and she had supplemental insurance, a home equity loan, no mortgage, property taxes, utilities, and credit card debt. She was consistent with her payments each month but was concerned about reaching the coverage gap with her Medicare D plan.

The Economic Security Center team helped Billie file for energy assistance, explained the homestead credit, referred her to another agency for employment, and gave her information on the Senior Companions Program and local senior centers.

Today, Billie is a volunteer driver. She followed up on the energy assistance program and plans to file for homestead for the next tax year. Billie has reconnected with some of her family and has continued to seek support through the Cancer Association.
Stay informed. Programs are always changing and new ones are being created. One way is to visit www.MyMedicareMatters.org to learn about what Medicare covers and updates on services.

Most programs require that you advise them if your income or living situation changes, even temporarily. Technological advances mean that agencies communicate better and they do share information. You could lose your benefits if you do not promptly notify an agency of any income change.

Recertification
Many agencies require that you provide evidence of your income level after you have been approved for benefits. As an example, the Senior Community Service Employment Program (SCSEP) reviews your income level one year after you are accepted into the program. You should keep your income statements safe and accessible and be prepared to provide your case worker with copies if required. Keep in mind, some programs will review your income as soon as three months after approval.

One Benefit Could Affect Another
Many programs have income limits. As an example, if you are receiving unemployment insurance payments and you apply to SCSEP, your unemployment insurance may be reduced because of the SCSEP stipend. Consider talking to your case worker at your current program to see if it will be affected by receiving benefits from a new program.
Frequently Asked Questions

What do I do if a crisis hits?
Everyone experiences unexpected events. It may be health related and you may have to use credit cards or dip into savings and retirement. If you feel yourself getting in over your head, talk to someone. The worst situation is to avoid seeking advice, hiding, and waiting until the debt collectors are at the door. By then, it may be too late. It is much easier to work things out with the bank before it turns your account over to a collection agency. Contact a National Council on Aging (NCOA) Economic Security Center in your community to get the name of a reputable debt counselor.

How do I become resource-FULL?
You have found resources and you want to become resource-FULL. The key to success is starting your search. One place to start is with the National Council on Aging’s BenefitsCheckUp® or NCOA’s Economic Security Centers.

At an NCOA Center, you can talk to someone about programs in your community and receive one-on-one economic casework or assistance with accessing benefits. Benefit programs are constantly changing. Check in your community for organizations that address older adult concerns. In one community, a local organization called Planning for Elders operates a “Senior Survival School” that provides free information on topics including transportation, health care, and housing. Check if your community has a similar program. Sharing information is a big part of becoming resource-FULL.
Frank is a 61-year-old husband and father of three who was laid off from his job along with his wife. He was too young to qualify for Social Security, so he enrolled in City of Los Angeles Senior Community Service Employment Program (SCSEP), where he found a job earning $800 per month working 20 hours per week.

Thanks to SCSEP, Frank had found a permanent unsubsidized job as a school tutor. However, he was unable to start work because he couldn’t afford to pay for the required medical clearance tests. He had tested positive on his mandatory TB test and needed a chest x-ray to prove that he did not have TB so he could start working. Frank did not have health insurance and was not eligible for Medicare or Medicaid. At the same time, Frank fell behind on his utility bills and his late fees were accruing faster than he could pay down his bill.

NCOA’s Economic Security Center stepped in to help. Staff connected Frank to a zero-interest micro loan to help him pay for his medical exam and referred him to low-cost clinics to get the exam. They also connected him with a student loan consolidation program to help him lower his monthly student loan payments based on his actual income. Frank’s economic case manager helped him apply for food assistance and educated him on the Earned Income Tax Credit.

Frank is now applying for a grant to help pay his past-due energy bills through the Temporary Energy Assistance for Families program. Although Frank is still struggling to make ends meet, his economic case manager continues to work with him to identify other ways to help this family stay in their home and become more economically secure. Barriers remain, including long wait lists for public and private programs; a delay in the state budget that meant many programs and services were suspended, reduced, or cut; high unemployment rates in Los Angeles; and low eligibility for public aid programs despite the high cost of the region.

Using a person-centered approach gave Frank a single contact to help with completing applications and finding more information; a holistic review of his economic situation to identify a variety of ways where community supports and public benefits could help; and goal setting to plan and prioritize next steps.
